BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

ESTABLISHED IN 1869. "Let us see to it, that a Government of the People, for the People, and by the People, shall not Perish from the Earth."—A. LINCOLN. TERMS: $2.00 PER ANNUM

VOL. IV. BELLEFONTE, PENN'A., WEDNESDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 4, 1872. NO 48.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.
R. B. BARGER,....Proprietor.
W. W. BROWN,.....Editor.
Terms: $2.00 Per Annum in Advance.

THE absence of the Editor will account for the lack of local and editorial matter in this number.

MONEY! MONEY!!

We again repeat our dun. Friends we want our money and must have it. Two dollars or four or six dollars may seem a small amount to you, but fifteen hundred multiplied by $2,00 makes a handsome sum.

Now friends pay up if you wish to save cost and prevent having your names stricken from our list.

We cannot run the REPUBLICAN forever without money.

Pay up between this and January 1st, 1873

Put yourselves to some trouble, if needs be, to do this.

EXTRAVAGANCE.—From the middle of 1862 to the last of June, 1872, the United States paid Paris the sum of $260,000,000. This amount was forwarded in gold, on account of jewelry, laces, silks, gloves, crapes, merinoes, hats, human hair and miscellaneous toilet articles.

"FLOATING political drift-wood" is what the World now calls its late Liberal allies. It says the "obstinate, silent scorn of Democrats" cost thrice as many votes as were gained from the Republicans; declares the Greeley canvass a "prodigious blunder;" extends a cordial hand to those who refused the crow, and gives the Liberals a hint as plain as anything less than shoe leather could make it, to "clear out."

ONE of the gentlemen who are now engaged in instructing the public how to prevent great conflagrations, maintains that "if a blanket had been steeped in water and hung up in front of the hottest fire in Boston or Chicago, and kept thoroughly drenched by the engines, it would have remained unscorched to the last." He enforces his theory by a statement that "if any one will take a piece of paper, and shaping it like a cup, fill it with water, the paper thus filled may be held close over a gaslight and an egg boiled in the water, and the water itself pass off in steam, yet the paper will remain unscorched so long as the water shall be supplied to it."

SATISFACTION, says the Pittsburg Dispatch, reigns throughout the State over the re-election of President Grant. Never in the history of our country since the days of Washington has there been such a universal feeling of content over the Presidential election. South, the bitterness of the campaign has given way to a softened tone auguring well for the prosperity, progress and perpetuity of the Union. We are "one and indivisible," and the election of the 5th ult., is an incontrovertible proof of the fact. There may be factious spirits who wish to keep up a show of resistance to the laws, State and National, but the re-election of President Grant by such an overwhelming majority must convince them that their opposition is useless. The Democrats who did not vote for Mr. Greeley, and who remained away from the polls, expressed their views upon the subject of our nationality and the principles which form the foundations of the Republic. From these views they will not swerve, and this may be regarded as final.

HOW REPUBLICANS MANAGE.

The result of Republican rule and an honored administration of affairs is thus stated with regard to two States:

Iowa, one of the staunchest of Republican States, and one that has been under Democratic rule less, we believe, than any other State, is entirely out of debt, and has a large cash balance in the treasury. So much for the "Radical thieves."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Indiana is an illustration of the same Republican tendency to pay off debts and save money. In nine years of Republican power, broken by two of Democratic obstruction and attempted Repudiation, she paid off $10,000,000 of public debt, while the Democracy, in fourteen years of power, paid not a dollar of it, and in its last four years of power increased the debt near two millions and a half of dollars. The Republicans gave her a surplus of half a million, which the Democracy gave to its State Treasurer to make money for his own pocket.—Indianapolis Journal

To these we might add, that during six years of John F. Hartranft's management of the accounts and finances of Pennsylvania he reduced her State debt ten millions of dollars.

THE HAPPY FAMILY.

From an article in the N. Y. Times it seems that a precious row has sprung up among the Democrats and Liberal National Committee as to the expenditure of money in the campaign. About $300,000 has been collected from a few rich enthusiasts in the Greeley cause, prominent among whom are A. T. Stewart, A. Schell, the Tribune Association, Geo. Sprague and his brother Amasa, Greeley, Marshall, O'Roberts, Jno. E. Williams, Jno. Cochrane, Robt. Murray and others. At $5.00 per thousand for eight page documents, the price paid by the Union Republican National Committee, which has distributed about 14,000,000, this $300,000 would print sixty million documents. As it is known that the Greeley committee has not distributed one fifteenth of this amount, the fact is thus disclosed that numerous sharpers in the Greeley movement must have pocketed a nice little sum, each for his own purposes. Prominent among these charged with such appropriation is Ethan Allen, chairman of the Liberal committee, ex Marshal Robert Murray, who, it is said, is unable to spell the commonest words, and the notorious Wm. P. Wood, of Washington city, ex-detective of the Treasury Department, who, it is charged, made a nice haul. As Grant gave nothing to secure his election, while Greeley gave $6,000 to a set of as ferocious scamps as the nation affords, it may be said that here the reform comes in. It is well now since the election is over to give the movers of the Greeley cause the benefit of these facts.

THE DEAD DEMOCRACY.

The New York Star (Democratic), shedding tears over the defunct Democracy of Empire State, discourses in this wise: "Grant, President; Dix, Governor; Havemeyer, Mayor—this is the net result of the campaign, a lesson to the divided Democracy, a glorious conquest for the United Republicans. The manipulations of Kelley, Fox and Welch have sunk the customary Democratic city majority of 60,000 to a song, and one more contest like this will close out the party entirely. One blast from the horn of Peter B. Sweeny would have been worth ten thousand tootings by these baby "leaders." The defeat will be gall and wormwood to the "chiefs," but the rank and file can afford it, hoping for better guidance and better luck in the future."

A GOOD LAW.—One of the best laws ever suggested by our Legislature is that prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors on election day. This of itself is a practical step in the right direction worth immeasurably more than all the preaching of would-be reformers, wherever found. Gov. Geary, like his predecessors, until this law went into effect, on election day, was constantly receiving telegrams apprising him of disturbances of the peace and sometimes calling for military power to suppress riots, all the result of drinking to excess. His Excellency, better than any other persons in the State, can testify to the beneficial operations of the law in question, for since its existence he has not received a single notice of any election disturbance anywhere in the State. Before, not an election occurred without bringing with it riot and bloodshed, to be followed by trial and conviction in our courts, and after that the petition for Executive clemency.

HORACE GREELEY IN CHURCH.—A New York correspondent says that Henry Ward Beecher is accustomed to set apart certain Sundays in a year for the baptism of children. Due notice is given from the pulpit, and a goodly array of little ones generally are presented before the altar. Last Sunday was appointed for this service. among the children was a nice, curly headed little fellow, and Mr. Beecher proceeded with the service: "This child, whose name is Horace Greeley, I bap——" the announcement was greeted with universal laughter, which drowned the rest of the sentence. The mirth was instantaneous unpremeditated and irresistible. One lady, whose husband evidently did not vote for Horace, was heard to exclaim: "What a shame, and such a nice looking little fellow, too!"

—Propellors Jas. Fisk, Jr., and Canisteo, which left Cleveland on Saturday evening for Chicago and Detroit, were compelled to return after laying all night in the ice from four to six inches thick. The Fisk had a hole stove in her bow.

ALABAMA.

The Washington Republican of yesterday says: Dispatches received yesterday announce the intelligence that Senator Spencer was nominated for re-election to the Senate by the unanimous vote of the caucus of Republican members of the Legislature. This is equivalent to an election; for the Republicans have a majority of at least ten legally elected members of the Assembly, and is a merited tribute to the personal worth and eminent political services of Senator Spencer.

Governor Lewis, it appears, has thrown a wet blanket upon the hopes and aspirations of the revolutionary body, claiming to be the Legislature of Alabama, by informing that august assemblage in effect, that it was practically without a quorum, inasmuch as seats were occupied by persons not elected to fill them, mere interlopers, whose authority to act as legislators could not be recognized by law. It follows, therefore, that the Secession Democratic farce now being played at Montgomery, will soon be ended, and the legally elected Legislature permitted to assume its legitimate and proper functions.—Telegraph.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

Full returns of the Presidential election show that thirty States, having 294 electoral votes, chose Grant electors, and that seven States, having 72 electoral votes, chose Greeley electors. Grant's majority in the Electoral College is 222. The following exhibits the respective States and their electoral vote. For Grant and Wilson;

Maine	7	Alabama	10
New Hampshire	5	Mississippi	8
Vermont	5	Arkansas	6
Massachusetts	13	Ohio	22
Rhode Island	4	Indiana	16
Connecticut	6	Illinois	21
New York	35	Michigan	11
New Jersey	9	Wisconsin	10
Pennsylvania	29	Kansas	5
Delaware	3	Iowa	11
Virginia	11	Minnesota	9
West Virginia	5	Nebraska	3
North Carolina	10	California	6
South Carolina	7	Oregon	3
Florida	4	Nevada	3
Total			294

The following are the Greeley and Brown States:

Maryland	8	Kentucky	12
Georgia	11	Tennessee	12

WATCH THEM.—The prominent Democratic politicians who will have seats in the Constitutional Convention will make a combined assault upon the present judiciary system of the State. Of this there can be no doubt, judging from the discussions going on in the organs of the Democratic party. Judges Black and Woodward, backed by Buckalew, will endeavor to have the Supreme Court enlarged, the State divided into judiciary districts, and the judges elected on the cumulative plan. It will be nothing less than a political move, and the Republican members of the Convention will need to brace themselves against the sophistries and plausible theories of the wily and astute men who will originate and support it. There is a prevalent opinion that our present judiciary system requires simplifying, so far as Allegheny county is concerned, at least, and it is pretty certain that it will engage the most earnest attention of the Convention.—Pittsburg Mail.

AT LAST.—Charles R Buckalew has succeeded in worming his way into the Constitutional Convention to sit alongside of Andrew G. Curtin, for whose "distinguished services" to the Democratic-Liberal party, ex-Gov. Bigler graciously gave up his prospects and retired to the peaceful shades of political oblivion. Buckalew has frozen to the seat of Freeze, and Freeze melted at the injustice of the party in refusing to elect his friend Governor, in tears and with entreaties, has asked the immaculate statesman of Fishing creek notoriety to take his chair in the Convention. Buckalew froze to it at once. It is touching to remark the unselfishness of Freeze when a fellow-being is in trouble. It indicates that generosity, magnanimity, and charity have not yet

"Fled to brutish beasts,
And men have lost their reason."

Mr. Freeze is now out in the cold, and we will see whether Buckalew can find it in his frigid nature to reciprocate the kindness of his sacrificing friend. He is provided for, now what will he do for Freeze?—Pittsburg Dispatch.

ABOUT midway up Laura street, Jacksonville, Fla., may be seen a tree which exhibits full grown oranges and lemons growing side by side, and both in a flourishing condition. The lemon has been grafted upon the orange tree with remarkable success, and attracts general attention.

DEATH OF HORACE GREELEY.

Yesterday the candidate of a great party for the first office in a nation second to none; an influence in no mean city and throughout the country; known more widely over the world than many who have held prominent offices; commended by consistent advocacy of prime truths when their support demanded moral courage—to-day Horace Greeley lives only in the record of what he taught and the influence of what he did. The dividing line seems sharper than it was, but was suddenly drawn. The concerns with which the man was connected through a life doubled in length by its activities, invest his death with partic'ar importance.

The essential facts in Mr. Greeley's biography are few. He was born in Amherst, near Manchester, New Hampshire, in the spring of 1811. His father was an unsuccessful farmer. The son became a printer in his fifteenth year; worked in Erie in this State a short time, and in 1833 was a partner in publishing the first penny paper in New York city. He was concerned with several political and literary papers, of no permanent importance before he founded the Tribune in 1841. His time, his labor, his ability were expended in the paper; and their worth is seen in its position, and in the victory of so many of the principles it has been made at one time and another to champion. Personally and in the Tribune he brought all of his influence to bear against slavery, when slavery was all but omnipotent in the country. He lived long enough to see slavery overthrown and universal emancipation proclaimed. He enlisted against the so-called Democratic party when its ascendency was complete and promised to be perpetual. Before his death he saw its burial—so deep that his own misguided efforts could not rouse it to the semblance of fair life. He took an earnest and hearty interest in the diffusion of education; and saw common schools multiplied in every State, improved in character, complemented with high and technical schools, with academies, college and libraries beyond any precedent, and beyond the wildest dreams of his beginning. Born upon a farm, he believed agriculture to be the pediment of national prosperity, the adjutant to all solid progress, and invaluable in its aid to individual and national character. He saw it prosecuted upon a scale never before known; with greater material returns, greater intelligence and greater helps of every kind. He apprehended that the profit of agriculture, the supremacy of commerce, the diffusion of knowledge, the gain and maintenance of freedom, and the harmonious, stable development of Republican institutions in this country, demanded that manufactures should be encouraged and protected. Giving them the same wise and resolute countenance he turned to whatever else he held of paramount moment, before his death he saw them more diversified, more perfect, more successful and more universally appreciated than could have seemed possible in the short term in which they had been properly recognized, vieing with those of the oldest lands and emboldened to greater essays.

These great interests all owe something to Mr. Greeley. If he did not discover the principles for which he fought; if others wheeled up a heavier artillery in their defense and propagation, he assuredly chose the wiser side through most of his political career and in all of his philanthropic, educational and industrial, and taking the best weapons on the right side, he fought away gallantly, undaunted by many defeats, through the greater portion of thirty years. If it is remembered that he made mistakes; if an error of judgment is found here or of conduct there; if we cannot quite forget that his latest labor seemed to contradict much that is recited for his honor, we can at least recollect that it is human to err, and that no life is infallible. His mistakes die with him. Or, if they live, live only to lesson others. His merits, built on enduring principles and wrought into the texture of popular thought more or less through the whole country, have a longer tenure of being and will serve an useful office through many coming years.

Independent of what he believed and did, Mr. Greeley was, in his own person, a creditable illustration of what the American principles he admired may do for a man. Born without any advantages and under many disadvantages, by the sheer force of personal energy, operating upon fair native capacities, he become a recognized power in the land and was cited as representative abroad. Without receiving aid, he gave much; without holding office, he dispensed it. He contributed to formulating the thought of his period; to putting it in action; directing its course; harvesting its results, and directing their application. The colored race of the country will always esteem him. The history of abolition and of the great war that clenched what the Revolution won cannot be written without his name. And in other departments and ways he attained a position creditable to the institutions under which it was won as well as to the individual.

The precedent set by President Grant last evening will be followed throughout the country. As he declined his social engagements out of respect to the memory of his late opponent, so the country will condone the mistakes in the busy life that is hushed; and remembering the manliness of Mr. Greeley's struggle; his sincere love of country; his wise and persistent efforts for the country's progress; his labors for human rights and liberties and improvement; his paramount purpose to aid and not hinder whatever is good and true and of good repute, it will forget the failure and forgive the mistake, honoring much that unquestionably deserves honor, and preserving the example for future use.—U. S. Gazette.

THE OIL REGIONS.

EXTENSIVE STRIKES IN SUGAR CREEK TOWNSHIP, VENANGO COUNTY.

The Franklin Citizen says: During the past two weeks developments in Sugar Creek township and along the valley of Sugar creek have proved that nearly the entire section of country lying between French creek on the west, Sugar creek on the north, Oil creek on the east and the Allegheny river on the south, is good oil territory.

The well on the John Ware farm, located on the lake branch of Sugar creek, three miles above Cooperstown, owned by Smith & Titus, struck ten weeks ago, is producing about eight barrels of third sand oil, forty-two gravity. This well will be torpedoed, when it is expected the production will be largely increased. A number of operators have visited the well, and leases are being taken rapidly.

The old Ralston and Brown wells in that immediate vicinity have been producing for years, and in the past year have produced over $12,000 worth of oil.

On the Wm. Hoover farm, east branch of Sugar creek, developments will soon be made.

On the Galloway tract, Sugar creek, one mile from this city during the past week, several large strikes have been made. The well of Grant, Moorhead & Co. was tubed last week, and is producing over one hundred barrels per day.

Well No. 3, on Martin & Epley's lease, same tract, commenced pumping last week, and is yielding forty barrels per day.

On the Redman tract, same locality, owned by C. W. Mackey, Esq., of this city, and others, two strikes have been made during the past week. The first well is producing forty barrels, and the second, owned by Thomas Shannon and others, about twenty barrels.

GEORGE W. JULIAN, of Indiana, who once enjoyed the confidence of the oldest and strongest Republican district in the State, is a "martyr" with Banks, Sumner, Trumbull, and other apostates of that kind. He is laid up for good, and there he will lie till doomsday. The Quakers did not take his advice in Indiana, just as those of Pennsylvania did not approve that of Buckalew and McClure. They were in favor of the grand warrior who, having saved the country through the providence of God, said: "Let us have Peace."

FRAUDS.—The Democrats bawl about frauds, but the investigation in Luzerne county already disclose the fact, that in four precincts in Scranton, the overseers were assaulted and driven from their seats at the election board by sworn officers of the election, and where 800 voters were registered, the Democrats had a majority of 1,500. This catalogue of crimes against the ballot culminated in a forgery and alteration of the returns, to count in their candidates, defeated notwithstanding the monstrous frauds perpetrated at the polls.

SELF-DENIAL is the most exalted pleasure, and the conquest of evil the most glorious triumph.

STATE NEWS.

Lebanon celebrated thanksgiving day by a fireman's parade.

Our country exchanges are extremely barren of local news.

The Valley Furnace, near Sharon, is being repaired.

The machinery of the Scranton silk factory was set in motion last week.

The Huntingdon Journal wants somebody to establish a manufactory of agricultural implements in that place.

The Shenango steam flouring mill at Sharon, burned on the 15th of November, is to be rebuilt at an early date.

Miss Nancy J. McGowan died suddenly in Sharpsville, Mercer county, a few days since.

Dr. Franklin Taylor, a brother of Bayard, has been appointed an instructor in French and German Literature in the West Chester State Normal school.

A young man named Harry Dingies, son of Jonas Dingies, of Tyrone, was killed one day last week on the Philadelphia and Erie railroad.

Carl Schurz lectured in Titusville on Thursday last, on "Germany & France," after which the German citizens gave him a grand banquet.

David Over is now sole proprietor of the Hollidaysburg Register, Jacob Z. Over having withdrawn from the firm of Over & Brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Allen, of Williamsport, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on the evening of the 27th.

On Friday last, at Titusville, John Latter dropped dead of heart disease. He leaves a family in destitute circumstances.

As an argument in favor of lighting the streets with gas, the Emporium Press says it is dangerous after dark to venture out, from the likelihood of stumbling over the body of a drunken man.

Gov. Geary has commissioned Stokes L. Roberts, Esq., of Bucks county, Additional Law Judge for the Seventh Judicial District, composed of the counties of Bucks and Montgomery.

A woman named Baldwin, living about four miles from Titusville in the country, took a large dose of arsenic on Friday last, mistaking it for morphine and death resulted in two hours.

Mr David Lewis, of Broad Top, Huntingdon county, died on Wednesday eve. while on a visit to his brother, John W. Lewis, of Prospect borough, Cambria county.

Watson McClelland, aged thirteen, son of a widow residing in Kernville, Cambria county, was caught in the fly-wheel of a mill in that place on Wednesday evening last, thrown a distance of twenty feet, and instantly killed.

The South Mountain railroad, which runs from Rockville, Dauphin county, to Rehrersburg, Berks county, is being rapidly pushed towards completion, four hundred men being employed on the work.

Mr. Cyrus Gearheart, of Manor Hill, Huntingdon county, while on his way from Petersburg toward home, a day or two since, was thrown from his wagon against a fence, and has lain in an unconscious state since, with but little hopes of his recovery.

Thomas I. Wirt, residing near Hanover, York county, was attacked by a bull a few days ago, which tossed him into the air, and would have killed him, but for the interference of a large Newfoundland dog, which caught the infuriated animal by the nose and held him until the man made good his escape.

A young lady about sixteen years of age named Lizzie Albert, residing at Johnstown, was fatally injured by the explosion of kerosene oil, which she was in the act of pouring on the fire to aid in kindling it on Thursday afternoon last. She lingered in great agony until Friday when she died

The Clearfield Republican says that all the territory now comprising Clearfield county was embraced in Chinghclemuch township, Centre county in the year 1806. The taxable inhabitants of the township at that date numbered 152, of which number 26 were "single freemen."

Mary Ann Olden, thirteen years of age, disappeared from Franklin, a few days ago, where she was employed at a hotel. When last seen she wore a dark striped calico dress, with overskirt, green shawl, and black velvet hat. Any information as to her whereabouts will be thankfully received by her mother, Mrs. Ellen Ornaman, Petroleum Centre, Pa.

MUSIC AND LABOR.

The banging of the hammer,
The cutting of the plane—
The crashing of the busy saw,
The creaking of the crane—
The singing of the anvil,
The grating of the drill—
The clattering of the turning lathe,
The whirling of the mill—
The buzzing of the spindle,
The rattle of the loom—
The puffing of the engine,
The fan's continual boom—
The clipping of the tailor's shears,
The driving of the awl—
These sounds of honest industry,
I love—I love them all.

The clicking of the magic type,
The earnest talk of men—
The toiling of the giant press,
The scratching of the pen—
The tapping of the yard-stick,
The tinkling of the scales—
The whispering of the needle,
(When no bright cheek it pales—
The humming of the cooking-stove,
The surging of the broom—
The pattering feet of childhood
The housewife's busy hum—
The buzzing of the scholars,
The teacher's kindly call—
These sounds of active industry,
I love—I love them all

I love the plowman's whistle,
The reaper's cheerful song,
The drover's oft repeated shout,
Spurring his stock along
The bustle of the market man,
As he hies him to the town;
The holloa from the tree top
As the ripened fruits comes down;
The busy sound of threshers,
As they clean the ripened grain;
The husker's joke and catch of glee
'Neath moonlight on the plain;
The loud voice of the drayman,
The shepherd's gentle call—
These are the sound of industry,
I love—I love them all.

Oh, there's a good in labor,
If we labor but aright,
That gives vigor in the daytime,
A sweeter sleep at night;
A good that bringeth pleasure,
E'en to the toiling hours;
For duty cheers the spirit,
As dew revives the flowers,
Then say not that our Father
Gave labor as a doom.
No! 't is the richest mercy
From the cradle to the tomb;
Then let us still be doing
Whate'er we find to do,
With cheerful, hopeful spirit,
And free hand, strong and true.

THE DEATH PENALTY!

Execution of Michael Moore.

Great Change in the Demeanor of the Doomed Man—He Claims to Have Repented of His Sins—Scenes in the Jail, in the Corridor and on the Scaffold—He is Hung Without Making a Public Confession.

Michael Moore, the convicted Cambria county wife murderer, at noon yesterday was engaged in conversation with his religious advisers. Twenty minutes after he was led to the gallows erected for the purpose of taking away his life and launching him into eternity. Five minutes later he was by the hands of a fellow-man thrown into the sudden embrace of death. It was a sickening, saddening spectacle, this legal killing of a human being, whose breath came from the Almighty and whose existence should have continued till the creating power recalled it. But while thoughts of this character could not be restrained, the other thought that he himself had robbed another of God's implanted life would assert itself and the Divine law of retribution, "He that sheddeth man's blood by man shall his blood be shed," spoken in the loud language of accumulated sentences and with the force of the foundation of law. It was a suggestive sight. Here was a man led out with his limbs pinioned and placed in position under man's implement of death. Man's laws had been violated, these were based on God's laws and man's had to be the instrument of their execution. A body containing soul to be cast into a present coffin, and the soul by human agency forced to appear before its maker to answer before the great tribunal for a crime for which man had condemned. What awful problems were suggested here—problems which the finite mind must try in vain to fathom.

But the man to be judicially murdered was himself a murderer, and the story of his crime reveals a nature which belies the name of man.

HIS CHARACTER.

Moore has for the past fifteen years been considered a bad character. It has been charged that he caused the death by drowning of Connor, the husband of the woman with whom he was living when he was arrested. It is also averred that it is susceptible of proof that he was the miscreant who killed in cold blood old Ebensboro Smith, in Yoder township, in 1865, while it has even been hinted that his own father lost his life through violence at his hands before his departure from Ireland.

LAST HOURS.

During the past two weeks a wonderful change came over Moore, and his brutal disregard for his approaching doom was changed to a certain amount of docility. His aversion to all offers of religious advice was given up, and he expressed a willingness to receive the assistance of members of the Catholic faith, to which he belonged. Father Christy, pastor of the Catholic church in Ebensburg, and Mother Hortense and Sister Dara, of the St. Joseph Sisterhood, at once commenced visiting him, and during the last seven days of his life, one or more of these were constantly with him, talking to him of the necessity of preparing for his death. Under their instruction and faithful attendance Moore's disposition improved, and Father Christy states his belief that he repented of his sins with sincerity. The reverend gentleman further states that he made no confession of having been the murderer of his wife, and never spoke on the subject save with regard to the testimony, claiming that false allegation had been made against him.

On Tuesday he for the first time since his arrest exhibited symptoms of manhood. During the afternoon he received a visit in his cell from his two sons Thomas Moore and Michael Connor, the former by his first wife and the latter by his second. Thomas, a bright, intelligent little fellow aroused new sensations in the heart of the condemned man, and over him wept tears. The innocent boy seated himself upon the knees of his depraved father. What a picture! The man once a boy—the boy to be a man. One with a career all but ended, the other with a life before him, which if spared, might lead to the noblest ends. With his own offspring he lovingly toyed, until the time came for leaving, and then Michael Moore bid "good bye" to the only tie which earth possessed for him, for no other relative had visited him since his incarceration.

The man's heart softened. To one of the boys he gave his overcoat and to the other his coat. To Thomas he said "Promise to say your prayers regularly and if you are asked to take liquor don't touch it. Remember the 27th of November." What a day for a son to remember the day when his father was executed for murdering his mother. During Tuesday night Moore was very restless and paced his cell incessantly crying ever and anon. "God is merciful." "Christ is merciful," &c., &c. About six o'clock he became fatigued and laid upon his bench. He fell into a sound sleep which lasted about an hour and a half. When he awoke the Sisters named assisted him in religious exercises. A little later Father Christy arrived and the Holy Sacrament was administered to the doomed man. The hour for breakfast having arrived, Moore was asked what he would take and asked for some coffee and bread. When it was brought to him he drank the coffee and partook sparingly of the bread. This over he returned to his devotions still assisted by Father Christy and the Sisters until the Sheriff and his assistants arrived to pinion him.

PREPARING.

Shortly after twelve o'clock Sheriff Bonacker, accompanied by Conductor Quartz, 'Squire Cox and John Fenlon, Esq. When the trio entered he bade adieu to the sisters and requested 'Squire Cox to put on his clean white shirt and collar and a small black necktie. The 'Squire proceeded to do so and the following conversation ensued:

'Squire—If you wish it I will.

Moore—Did you ever see any one hung?

'Squire—No.

Moore—I shall die an easy death.

'Squire—Why do you say so, Michael?

Moore—I am so ready and willing to die that I am sure of it.

The shirt having been adjusted, the Sheriff proceeded to pinion his arms. Moore offered no resistence, but quietly held his arms to be bound. He remained silent, but showed no signs of fear or emotion, the only thing noticeable being a spasmodic blinking of the eyes. The pinioning over a black crucifix was placed in his hands, and as he received it he raised it as near to his breast as his bound arms would allow.

THE DEATH MARCH.

These preliminaries having been arranged, the Sheriff and his deputy, Mr. Hasson, assisted the prisoner from his cell, and the march to death was commenced. Father Christy led the cortege reading from the service of the Catholic Church, Moore followed making the prescribed responses, the Sheriff and his assistants bringing up the rear. Moore tread with a firm, determined step, and clasped the crucifix close to his breast. As he emerged from the corridor on to the gallows and his eye met the upturned faces of the seventy or eighty spectators, he faltered for a second, but recovering himself almost in a moment, marched upon the instrument of death.

THE GALLOWS

Was erected in the angle of the jail-yard formed by the eastern and northern sides of the wall. It was composed of two upright beams, each 10 feet in height, with a cross beam of 3 feet. The platform was 12 by 16 feet, and was 4 feet from the ground. The trap was 2½ feet square, and was secured to the platform by heavy iron hinges. The trap was held in place by a heavy iron bolt a half inch in diameter and 4 inches long. To this bolt was attached a rod controlled to a lever, a mere touch on which removed the bolt, when the drop fell. The drop was 20 inches. The entire structure was of original design, and was erected by ex-Sheriff Myers as superintendent, and Mr. J. D. Parish as constructor.

HANGED.

As soon as the procession had reached the scaffold, Father Christy commenced reading the Litany of the Saints, Moore taking a position in the centre of the platform on the fatal drop, with priest and sheriff on either side of him. As the service was read the condemned man responded in a low but distinct tone, "Lord be merciful to me a sinner." He appeared weak and was evidently broken in spirit. He bore the same repulsive look, however, and it was noticeable that during the entire proceedings previous to the black cap being placed on his head, that he never looked openly at the spectators, but seemed to desire to keep his eyes shut. At the close of the Litany he was placed in a chair and his legs pinioned. This done he was again placed on the trap. Sheriff Bonacker asked him if he had anything to say. He replied: "No—I have nothing to say but to ask the people here to pray for me; for the Lord to have mercy on my soul." After an instant's silence he continued, "I have just to say that I need your prayers." The noose was then placed around his neck very carefully by the Sheriff, with the knot immediately behind the left ear. The Sheriff then took his hand and said, "Good bye, Michael, may God have mercy on your soul." Moore replied, "God have mercy on my soul." The black cap was then placed on his head, and the priest upon his knees read the office for the dead. As soon as he concluded the sheriff pulled the lever, at 12:25, the trap gave way, and Moore fell through it. The moment the rope tightened the crack of his breaking neck was plainly heard. For a moment or two there was no motion visible in the body, then the hands began to tremble and to fall. There were then motions of the back and then the body of Michael Moore became lifeless forever. At 12:31 Drs. Evans, Bell of Altoona, Lemon and Slack pronounced life extinct. There was a nervous action in the pulse for some minutes later. At 1:01 the body was cut down and placed in a plain but respectable coffin which had been provided by the County. At 2 o'clock the remains were taken, unattended, to the Catholic cemetery and interred.

GEMS OF THOUGHT.

—The truth is, it is not the amount of thought which is poured in that gives wisdom, but the amount of living, creative mind and heart working on, and stirred by what is so poured in.—J. W. Robertson.

—God delights in true, earnest thinkers.—N. P. Willis.

—Strong in the goodness of his cause, with his back to the throne of God and his foot on the rock of truth, a man can stand against the world.—Guthrie.

—A truly great man's actions are works of art. Nothing with him is extemporized or improvised. They involve their consequences, and develop themselves along with the events that gave them birth.—Gnesses.

—Time creeps toward us with folded wings, but when 'tis past us, its wings seem to flap with speed.—Anon.

—Eloquence is the transference of thought and emotion from one heart to another no matter how it is done.—Gough.

—Faith sustains the same relation to works that lightning does to thunder. Faith without works is dead—lightning without thunder is ineffective Works evidence faith, so does thunder, lightning!—F. W. Robertson.

—Experience is a fine word for suffering.—Hannah Moore.

—The great secret of success in life is, for a man to be ready when his opportunity comes.—Disraeli.

—Where truth and right are concerned, we must be firm as God.—Guthrie.

—Despondency is ingratitude. Hope is God's worship.—Beecher.

—The greatest homage we can pay truth is to use it.—Emerson.

—The mystic cord of memory, stretching from every battle field, and patriot grave to every living heart and hearth stone all over the land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature.—Lincoln's First Inaugural.

A colored man was once asked why he never maried. "Why, you see, sah," said he, "I got an ole mudder, an' I hab to do for her, you see, sah, an' if I didn't buy her shoes an' stockins, she would get none. Now, ef I was to get married, I'd have to buy them things for my wife, an' dat 'ud be takin' de shoes an stockins right out ov my old mudder's mouf.

A YOUNG Indianain "proposed" to six young ladies just for fun, and was considerably annoyed by being accepted by all of them.

A Connecticut merchant, being asked how he spent his evenings, replied: "At night I store my mind and during the day I mind my store."

The Tongue.

Methinks it was the learned Doctor Arbuthnot which said (mayhap in his book on "Ailment") that whatsoever be the state of the tongue, such also will be the condition of the inward coat of the stomach; and it is for this reason that the man of physick doth examine the one that he may discover the foulness of the other; and lads who have eaten of the forbidden fruit do quake when they be told to put out the tongue, doubting much if that which they have eaten hath not in passing left its semblance on the same; which the doctor, seeking, maketh castor oil the penalty. Like as men of physick judge of the foulness of the stomach by the tongue, so also do other men judge of the foulness of the heart by the same. But this judgment oft faileth, as when an hypocrite speaketh and a good man heareth. For all men be not like unto him of whom Roger Ascham, the pedagogue, saith: "He thinketh nothing that he dare not speak, and speaketh nothing that he dare not do."

From the words of an enemy one learneth his failings; from a friend one learneth his virtues; but the tongue of that one doth not always speak what the heart feeleth. This fact doth strongly bring to mind that which an antient book telleth of the Egyptians who did dedicate to Harpocrates, their god of silence, the peach, whose leaf is shapen like a tongue, and whose fruit is of the form of the heart. This Harpocrates was likewise the god of meditation, for the reason that thought cometh of quiet. How much soever we may laugh at the people of old, it behooves us to remember that they did leave us some wholesome lessons—not so much in words, sometimes, as in their silent emblems. Thus Harpocrates, in the graven images of him, and in the pictures also, ever holdeth a finger to his lip.

When the man of the world useth his tongue he maketh the same useful unto himself. By giving loose rein thereto he gaineth knowledge of him that is timid, in this wise: he sayeth things that be pleasant to the other, and this one openeth his mouth and speaketh; just as when one heareth sweet music, he whistleth the air, or patteth his feet in time thereto. But with the brave man, that speaketh little, the man of the world sitteth tongue-tied, and loveth silence for the nonce. This giveth an air of reserve and of wisdom, and the taciturn man placeth his trust in him.

When we look upon them that have tongues yet cannot speak withal, we do pity them; but these be some deal blest, in that they cannot do hurt unto their kind, either by foul words or by slander. And nature has so ordained that the dumb shall be also deaf, that they may not hear the words which evil speakers say. They learn with their eyes and talk with their hands.

It is Ælian that maketh mention of a certain city in Macedonia where at one time all the cocks were dumb. This was a blessing to the dwellers in that city, but they had been more blessed had their gossips and their scandel-mongers and their tale-bearers been also dumb. When Xenarchus was told that only the males of the grasshopper could sing he said: "Then must they be happy, seeing that they have dumb wives."

The apostle calleth the tongue the unruly member, and well hath he so named it. But it hath not the power of self-motion, excepting, mayhap, the tongue of woman, the which, it hath been said, is fixed upon a pivot, whereon it moveth by gravitation. Methinks it would be perilous for one to prove this by examination; neither is it safe to approach the mouth of a woman that her age may be known by the teeth.

Deliver us from the smooth tongue of him that sayeth nought but words of compliment and apology; for his compliments be dusty with age, like the first almanack; and his apologies giveth him that receiveth them the truth of a certain Arabian proverb. The bearer beareth in mind that the hangman asketh pardon of the criminal while he pulleth the rope about his neck; and the modern Greek, that letteth fall a hod upon the head of him that passeth by, peereth over the wall and sayeth: "Look out below!" and "Stand from under!" when the stricken one may neither look nor understand. And save us all from the tongue of him that flattereth. Such an one "spreadeth a net for the feet of his neighbor." (Prov. xxix.) Let us welcome praise that is just, for all men seek reward for their works; and, as saith the poet:

"Who would care to do brave deed,
Or strive in virtue others to excel,
If none may give him the deserved meed.
Due praise, the spur of doing well?"

But flattery is the present that cometh from a foe, and this we should warily glimpse at.

Butler compareth the tongue of a silly prater to a racehorse, of which he sayeth, "The less weight he beareth the more swiftly he runneth." And another saith that such an one taketh hold of a purse, neither knowing what is contained therein, neither troubling his mind concerning the ownership thereof. But the tongue of the slanderer that stabbeth in the darkness is like unto the pang of the adder that sendeth deadly venom through the veins, and that maketh the strong man weak unto death. It taketh from innocence the brightness of life and turneth the honey of happiness into the gall of despair.

He that talketh much, though he may show great store of learning to the ignorant, showeth little more than much ignorance to the wise. L'Estradge hath said: "Much tongue and much wisdom do seldom go together;" and it was for this that Thomas Aquinas did behead the brazen man that Albertus Magnus had builded. This man of brass did talk from morning even unto nightfall. Him Albertus was building more than a score of years, and the beheading of him was a sore trial unto the builder, whose pupil Aquinas was. And this Aquinas did afterward dispute much with Duns Scotus, the two saying more foolish things than did ever the brazen man that Albertus made. Byron hath it that words be but things, and that a small drop of ink hath set millions by the ears. Truly; but there be other millions that be set on fire by the tongue. It pleaseth some men to take the scriptures to pieces; it irketh them to read and to understand the same, any two alike; and they have done battle for a text until many have been slain. There be many that tongue the words of that book; that spend their days in such wise, they have scant time to practise what the book teacheth; like as others that quarrel over the words of the doctor, and forget to take the remedy that he prescribeth. This tickleth the confectionmaker, but the apothecary grindeth his teeth. These same do differ much as to this word or that word, but in this they do agree; namely, to threaten and to curse each the other and the rest of mankind; but their threats be harmless, and their curses come home to roost like chickens, or like unto the boomerang, return and smite them that sent them forth.

When the nymph Echo did by the too great exercise of her tongue make Diana to wax wroth, the goddess did doom her to silence till that she should be spoken to. Since that time woman hath so prevailed over man by reason of this precedent that in an argument she must ever have the last word.

The great poet teacheth that we may be checked to silence, but that we should never be taxed for speech. This is good advice, but for the following of it the people of Amycle did lose their city. It was in this wise: They had been many times made afraid by the false rumor that an enemy was approaching. Then they passed a law that no man should thereafter speak of an enemy. It came to pass that the enemy did come, and the city was destroyed.

It is but seldom, methinks, that harm cometh of holding the tongue. It is not an easy task to restrain it, for, as the poet hath said:

"You may chain up the gates of a town,
But never the tongue of a foe."

And it giveth me great labor to discover wherein the tongue of the foe should be stronger than the tongue of a garrulous friend.

Discovery of Coffee.

An Arab legend gives the following account of the discovery of coffee: Toward the middle of the fifteenth century a poor Arab was traveling in Abyssinia, and, finding himself weak and weary from fatigue, he stopped near a grove. Then, being in want of fuel to cook his rice, he cut down a tree which happened to be covered that the half burned berries were very fragrant. He collected a number of these, and, on crushing them with a stone, he found that their aroma increased to a great extent. While wondering at this he accidentally let fall the substance in a can which contained his scanty supply of water. Lo, what a miracle! The almost putrid liquid was instantly purified. He brought it to his lips; it was fresh, agreeable, and in a moment after the traveler had so far recovered his strength and energy as to be able to resume his journey. The lucky Arab gathered as many berries as he could, and, having arrived at Aden, in Arabia, he informed the mufti of his discovery. That worthy divine was an inveterate opium smoker, who had been suffering for years from the influence of that poisonous drug. He tried an infusion of the roasted berries, and was so delighted at the recovery of his own vigor, that in gratitude to the tree he called it cahuah, which in Arabic signifies force.

THE SABBATH.—Sabbath day is the beautiful river in the week of Time. The other days are troubled streams, whose angry waters are disturbed by the countless crafts that float upon them; but the sure river Sabbath flows on to Eternal Rest, chanting the sublime music of the silent, throbbing spheres and timed by the pulsations of the everlasting life. Beautiful river Sabbath glide on! Bear forth on thy bosom the poor, tired spirit, to the rest which it seeks, and the weary, watching soul to the endless bliss.

'THAT man,' said a wag, 'came to this city forty years ago, purchased a basket, and commenced gathering rags. How much do you suppose he is worth now?' We gave it up. 'Nothing,' he continued, after a pause, and he owes for the basket.'

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Happiness consists in being perfectly satisfied with what we have got and what we haven't got.

The ever active and restless power of thought, if not employed about what is good, will naturally engender evil.

Martyrdom is never barren, because each man sees on the martyr's brow a line of his own duty.

Trust him little who praises all; him less who censures all; and him least who is indifferent about all.

The greatest of men live unseen to view, while thousands are not qualified to express their influence.

A man is apt to think that his personal freedom involves the right to make his fellow-men do just as he pleases.

To deal frankly, honestly, and firmly with all men turns out best in the long run.

He who has never a smile, nor a tear, nor an impulse of kindness towards others is unfit to live.

Melancholy falls upon a contented life like a drop of ink on white paper—which is not the less a stain because it carries no meaning.

The study of literature nourishes youth entertains old age, adorns prosperity, solaces adversity, is delightful at home and unobtrusive abroad.

Call a lady a "chicken," and ten to one she will be angry with you. Tell her she is "no chicken," and twenty to one she will be more angry still.

An old Spanish writer says:—"To return evil for good is devilish; to return good for good is human; but to return good for evil is godlike."

If a man be gracious to strangers it shows he is a citizen of the world; and his heart is no island cut off from other lands, but a continent that joins them.

Sincerity is speaking as we think, believing as we pretend, acting as we profess, performing as we promise, and being as we appear to be.

Whenever we find a man in the enjoyment of a wide popularity, we may be assured, however bad his reputation may be, that he has some good qualities in an eminent degree.

An eminent painter was once asked what he mixed his colors with, in order to produce so extraordinary an effect. "I mix them with my brains, sir," was his answer.

Success rides, on every hour; grapple it, and you may win, but without a grapple it will never go with you. Work is the weapon of honor, and he who lacks weapon will never triumph.

Women are formed for attachment. Their gratitude is unimpeachable. Their love is an unceasing fountain of delight to the man who has once attained and knows how to deserve it.

There are two ways of going through this world. One is to make the best of it, and the other is to make the worst of it. Those who take the latter course work for poor pay.

Charity is full of thankfulness for blessings professed, claiming but one thing—that its gifts may not be despised, that they may be appreciated and be fruitful of much good.

Wives, if you want to render your husband unhappy, blame him for everything he does, right or wrong, and scold him for this or that before you know whether he does it.

It is announced that the late Sir David Baxter has bequeathed the enormous sum of £500,000 to the Free Church of Scotland, and £50,000 to the University of Edinburgh.

We are all sculptors and painters, and our material is our own flesh, and blood, and bones. Any nobleness begins at once to refine a man's features; and meanness or sensuality to imbrute them.

A London newspaper records in one week eight anonymous donations of £1,000 each to London charities, making a total of forty-two donations of similar amounts during the current year, in addition to one of £10,000, likewise anonymous.

It is certain that, nine times out of ten we are nearer the truth in thinking well of persons than ill. Human nature is a tree bearing good as well as evil, but our eyes are wide open to the latter and half closed to the former.

In general, every evil to which we do not succumb is a benefactor. As the Sandwich Islander believes that the strength and valor of the enemy he kills passes into himself, so we gain the strength of the temptation we resist.

Mr. Beecher says:—"Consider morbid self distrust as an intruder that has no business in your brain. Treat it as you would insects or vermin that infest your dwelling. Hunt it, crush it, give it no quarter.

With one thousand years to live, most men would devote nine hundred to pleasure, and probably spend the remaining hundred in cursing their folly. As it is, the brevity and uncertainty of life is a strong inducement to men so to number their days that they may apply their hearts unto wisdom; and the fact that so many do now throw their inch of time away, gives little hope of a better mind if indefinite existence were assured them.

Of a miserly man who died of softening if the brain, a local paper said:—"His head gave way, but his hand never did. His brain softened, but his heart couldn't.

EVERY ONE that has used Pain Cure Oil are loud in their praises of its wonderful effects. They all say "There is nothing like it." Reader, try it. Sold wholesale and retail by F. P. Green Druggists Bellefonte Pa.

—Rev. Sam Watson, having been convicted of the authorship of a heretical book by the Memphis Conference of the Methodist Church, said book being a defense of spiritualism made a full apology and agreed to withdraw the book from sale as far as possible.

Mr. Ezra Waite, living in the southwestern portion of Greenwood township Crawford county, committed suicide on Friday last, by cutting his throat with a butcher knife. He had been sick with typhoid fever for several days, and committed the rash act while laboring under an attack of temporary insanity caused by the disease.

"THE time for lambs to lie down with the lion has not come," deprecatingly remark our Democratic friends. Certainly not, as long as they appear in wolves' clothing. Let them come in propria persona, and the lion won't hurt them in the least. But as long as they do the lying the Republicans will insist on doing the "lamming."

The Warren and Venango road has completed its track into Titusville and the rolling stock will soon be rumbling through the country, a complete line to Buffalo. The company has purchased sixty acres of ground of Jonathan Watson, located on the flats, near his residence in Titusville, which will be the site of the buildings of the company, including the depot. Regular trains will be running in a few days, and the buildings will be commenced as soon as the weather will permit.

"LET GREELEY BAIL HIM OUT!"—At one of the Sabbath Schools in this place, a few Sundays since, an amusing incident occurred, convulsing the entire school with laughter. The pastor gave a scriptural problem on the blackboard—a man confined in prison—and desired the scholars to inform him how they would get him out. An urchin surveyed the drawing a few moments, and feeling confident he had solved the mystery, exclaimed—"Let Greeley bail him out."—York Democrat

ONE of the humors of the political canvass in Missouri is the defeat of Pike for Congress in the Ninth District. He resigned the Circuit Judgeship to accept the Democratic nomination against Parker, to whose success he had previously pledged himself. The people not only punished him for his treachery by electing his Republican opponent in a Democratic district, but placed a Republican in the judicial chair made vacant by his resignation. Pike and his fellow Democrats have neither the bird in the hand nor the two in the bush.

A GEOLOGICAL novelty has been discovered on the line of the Detroit and Bay City Railroad, now being constructed through Tuscola county. It is in the deep cut in Millington township, on the tract of Page & Benson, about a mile north of Otter lake, and consists of what the men call gravel cement. It seems to be gravel and cement fused into a mass by the commingling of a molten mass, and is so hard as to necessitate blasting. In blasting, the pebbles are broken in two, showing that the cement, whatever it is, is stronger than stone itself. The stratum extends across the track, and is of unknown depth.

HITTING a man when he's down is considered a cowardly trick, but that is the little game the coalition journals are playing on their late leaders. Here is the Springfield Republican for instance, with this wicked drive at a prostrated Liberal:

WANTED—Information as to the present whereabouts of Reuben E. Fenton, aged 53, of unprepossessing appearance, furtive and crafty expression about the eyes, hesitates in his speech, very guarded and reticent with strangers, subject to absurd hallucinations about his own importance. When last heard from, was promising positions in Mr. Greeley's cabinet.

DIFFICULT SURGICAL OPERATIONS.—Yesterday afternoon Dec 3 Drs. Cable and Walters performed a very difficult operation upon a man named Charlotte, a resident of Steubenville, O. It appears that about seven months ago the man, while asleep, swallowed a false sett of teeth which lodged in his throat. He had been treated by many physicians at his home and elsewhere, but all failed to relieve him in the least. Yesterday the surgeons named opened the flesh surrounding the throat and by a most delicate piece of surgery succeeded in removing the obstruction. At last accounts the man was doing well.

THE AGE OF DISTINGUISHED MEN.

Although most of us have been accustomed to speak of Mr. Greeley as an old man, yet, says the New York Times, if we estimate his life by the standard which often prevails among distinguished men, we are justified in saying that Mr. Greeley's life came to a premature close. If medical men are right in the opinion that smoking is injurious, and that even moderate indulgence in stimulants tends to shorten life, surely the absence of those habits in Mr. Greeley should have tended to prolong his days. It must be remembered that Mr. Greeley was much younger than many men whose names are associated with his own in American political history, or who have been on the stage of public life during the whole or a portion of his career. Mr. Seward lived to the age of seventy-one, and Mr. Thurlow Weed still lives at the age of seventy-five. Mr. Webster was seventy when he died, and Henry Clay, to whom Mr. Greeley was devotedly attached, was seventy-five. Old Ben. Wade enjoys very fair health at the age of seventy-two, Mr. Chase is sixty-two, and Mr. Sumner is only Mr. Greeley's age. The late James Gordon Bennett was seventy-one when he died and Martin Van Buren was eighty. The newly elected Governor of New York is older than Mr. Greeley by thirteen years.

If we look to other countries, and turn to the men who have led very active and hard-working lives, we find the comparison equally striking. M. Thiers is seventy-five. Lord Brougham lived to the age of ninety-three—no doubt an exceptional instance; but the present Premier of England Mr. Gladstone, is sixty-three, and his great opponent, Mr. Disracli, is sixty-seven—six years Mr. Greeley's senior. Palmerston lived to the age of eighty-one, and the present Chancellor of the Exchequer, Robert Lowe, is only Mr Greeley's age, and is expected to do a great deal of hard night work, to say nothing of his incessant attention to office duties during the day. Mr. Greeley, then, cannot properly be described as an old man.

Here is something curious about a chimney in Lowell, Mass., just completed for the Lawrence mills. It is 208 feet in hight. The rainy weather and a heavy gale have caused this chimney to deflect about fifteen inches from the perpendicular, and fears have been expressed that it might fall. These are said to be groundless, as the deflection does not commence till a distance of 100 feet from the base has been had to the process of saving the mortar between the bricks, and the deflection has been thus reduced over three inches in twenty four hours. This operation if continued will restore the great chimney to its perpendicular.

A STRANGE story is told in a foreign newspaper of a Chinese boy at Shanghai, who told his schoolmaster that he had dreamed that his stepmother had murdered him and put him in a jar under the floor of the house. Soon after the boy no longer came to school and the master called at his house to inquire for him. An unsatisfactory reply was given, which excited the suspicion of the dominie, who took the liberty of tearing up the floor, and behold there was the corpse of the unfortunate lad nicely dissected and stowed away in a jar.

AN exchange tells a good story about a clergyman who lost his horse on a Saturday evening. After hunting with a boy until after midnight, he gave it up in despair. The next day, somewhat dejected at his loss, he went into the pulpit, and took for his text the following passage from Job: "O, that I knew where I might find him." The boy, who had just come in, supposing the horse was still the burden of his thought, cried out, "I know where he is; he's in Deacon Smith's barn."

A colored man was once asked why he never married. "Why, you see, sah," said he, "I got an ole mudder, an' I hab to do for her, you see, sah, an' if I didn't buy her shoes an' stockins, she would get none. Now, ef I was to get married, I'd have to buy them things for my wife, an' dat 'nd be takin' de shoes an stockins right out ov my old mudder's mouf.

One good mother is worth a hundred school-masters. In the home she is a "load-stone to all hearts, and a load star to all eyes." Imitation of her is constant—imitation, which Bacan likens to "a globe of precepts." But example is far more than precept. It is instruction in action.

Mr. Miller, the private secretary of Professor Tyndall, whom he brought from England to assist in the illustrations of his lectures, died, at Philadelphia, Saturday last, of typhoid fever. He had been ill for some weeks, so that he was unable to assist in the lectures in that city.

Manufactured and Sold Daily, of the

NEW IMPROVED ELIAS HOWE SEWING MACHINE!

THE GREATEST PRODUCTION OF INVENTIVE GENIUS, POINTS OF SUPRIORITY, BEAUTY, CONVENIENCE & DURABILITY. IT WILL LAST A LIFE TIME.

ALL of its wearing parts are made of hardened steel, has no Cog Wheels to Break or Rattle; great adjustability, (self-adjusting take-up) adjustable needle-head, will sew light or heavy goods perfect; makes the nicest hem or fell; will gather and sew on, Cord, Tuck, Braid, Binde, Embroider, or will do any kind of work, even make Crotchet Work Perfect.

This Machine makes the celebrated Lock stitch—the stitch invented by Mr. Howe—alike on both sides. The shuttle tension is upon the thread as it leaves the shuttle, and not upon the bobbin, as in most machines; and this tension is invariable, whether the bobbin be full or nearly empty. It is obtained by turning a screw in the shuttle, and can be changed in a moment, without taking out the work, breaking the thread, or threading through holes—This Machine is now hung on hinges, and the trouble of taking it from the table to clean and oil obviated.

What we claim, in substance, is, that this is an Honest Machine, and if put in your family, will do any and all of your work perfectly, will last a lifetime, is a willing and ready servant, and is not subject to FITS.

Persons who have tried all machines are unanimous in declaring this to be the easiest learned of any in the market. In the majority of cases customers learn from the instruction book without further aid.

This Machine is now for sale in your county by Traveling Agents. If you are not called on by them, and you want the Best Machine for the amount of money you pay out, please address I. F. PALMER & CO., Bellefonte, Pa., or, Philipsburg, Pa., either of which places you may live nearest to, and your order will receive prompt attention in person.—Our Machines are sold on easy terms—either by monthly installments, or by NOTE, CASH or PRODUCE at Market Prices. Needles, Oil, Thread and Extra Attachments constantly on hand at our offices. Office at Bellefonte in Garman's Hotel Building. Call and see styles and sample work.

COMMISSIONERS NOTICE.

Com. of Penna. } No. 33 August T., 1872,
vs.
Alexander Dillon, } Desertion.

The undersigned appointed a Commissioner, to take testimony in this suit and report the same to next Court of Quarter Sessions, to be held on the 4th Monday of November next, will attend to the duties of his appointment, at his office in Bellefonte, on Friday, November 22nd, 1872, at 12 o'clock, M., where and when those interested may attend.

ISAAC LYTLE,
43-4t, Commissioner.

COURT PROCLAMATION.

Whereas the Hon. Charles A. Mayer, President of the court of Common Pleas, in the 25th Judicial District, consisting of the counties of Centre, Clinton and Clearfield, and the Honorable W W Love and the Honorable Henry Dopp, Associate Judges in Centre county, having issued their precept, bearing date the 30th day of Oct., A. D., 1872, to me directed for holding a court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery and Quarter Sessions of the Peace in Bellefonte, for the county of Centre, and to commence on the 4th Monday of Nov. next being the 25th day of Nov'br 1872, and to continue two weeks.

Notice is therefore hereby given to the Coroner Justice of the Peace, Aldermen and Constables of the said county of Centre, that they be then and there in their proper persons, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, with their records, inquisitions, examinations, and their own remembrances, to do those things which to their office appertains to be done, and those who are bound in recognizances to prosecute against the prisoners that are or shall be in the Jail of Centre county, be then and there to prosecute against them as is all be just.

Given under my hand, at Bellefonte, the 30th day of Oct. in the year of our Lord, 1872 and in the ninety-fourth year of the Independence of the United States.

DUTY of TEAS.

THE GREAT AMERICAN TEA COMPANY have business connections with all the principal ports of China and Japan, and Import their Teas direct from place of growth, thus saving the consumer from 5 to 8 profits. It is now about 12 years since the Company was organized—and it has been a splendid success from the very first. This was due to the fact that we imported and sold only

THE BEST AND PUREST GOODS,

and distributed them to our customers in all parts of the United States, for one small profit only, between the Tea-grower and the Tea-consumer. We originated the system of supplying consumers in distant parts of the country with Teas, at New York Cargo Prices, on the Club plan. And since we adopted this plan we have saved the people of this country Millions of Dollars annually, in the cost of this article of every day necessity. Bellefonte, Pa

Coming Home.

The welcome letter is read—thrice welcome, for it says "I will be home to night." How softly bright the mother's eyes, as she busies herself about the house, making it fresh and inviting for the absent one. How merrily the children shout and caper as they are told that "Papa is coming home to day."

Mother prepares his favorite dish for the late tea; sister Anna practises over the old Scotch ballad papa loves best, and Rob and Hattie can scarcely wait for nightfall.

The hour comes at length, and brings papa, laden with all these parcels which are so delightfully mysterious to the children.

What a great shout and rush to greet papa!

What a flood of happy questions and answers!

What an undoing of the parcels, whose wrappings are so troublesome, and whose strings will knot!

Then the pet rabbit and Miss Dolly's new dress, made by Hattie's own tiny fingers, are shown, and much admired.

The evening swiftly glides away, the good nights are said, and all go to rest, while the old clock ticks on more contentedly than ever, now the master is home again, or at least mother thinks so, as she lies listening to its sounds a few moments before falling asleep.

"Jimmy, father is coming; let's run;" and two dirty, ragged little creatures hurry out of the basement into which a drunken man stumbles the next moment.

Finding no one there but his poor, miserable wife, he begins the usual order of things by cursing and abusing her.

The abuse at length reaches blows, and the wretched woman escapes into the street, calling for help, her husband following her.

"That's Jim, I'll be bound," mutters the policeman, as he buttons up his coat and starts down the narrow, dirty street in the direction of the sounds, while the children cower tremblingly in the corner, now and then peering forth to see if "Father is coming." Loud fierce words and oaths reach their ears, and soon they see the "star" shining, and know by that the policeman is coming back, and by the noise and confusion, that he is taking "Father" to the station.

When they are quite past, and out of sight, the frightened little objects draw a long breath of relief, and come out of the corner and go back to the hovel they call "home" comforting themselves with the assurance that "Father won't be home to night, anyway."

"My darling is coming home today," whispers the young girl to herself, as she flits about, now here now there, restless with joy, and snatching every possible moment to read again the dear lines which brought the glad tidings. She counts the hours and moments as they drag along—to her at least—and, as the time draws near, she takes out the white dress and pretty ribbons she wore the night John told her she "looked so beautiful," and after a careful toilet and a last smiling, lingering look at the charming picture she meets in the glass, runs out into the garden and gathers a bouquet of the freshest, choicest flowers, and placing one on her bosom another in her hair, she selects a sweet half opened rose for "dear John." In a few moments the well-known step and voice are heard, and the next instant, in a flutter of joyful excitement, she is clasped to her lover's breast.

Not now does she even whisper the fond words of the morning—that is only for her own heart, as yet—but her eloquent, love lit eye and blushing face are all sufficient answer when her lover's deep, tender voice whispers, "Is my darling so very glad to see me?"

When the brown curls press the pillow late that night, she looks out at bright, glimmering stars, and thinks what a beautiful world it is!"

Ah! the beauty she sees is owing chiefly to the fact that her lover has come home to night.

There is another coming home—to a dark, dreadful home. So utterly dark and wretched my pen refuses to attempt a description of it. Banished from all things beautiful, holy and pure, to a word of darkness, pain and despair, who can measure the unfathomable depth of woe and anguish which must attend the coming home of the lost!

In a bright, a glorious mansion, they are making ready for the coming home of many loved ones.

There is a joyful flutter of wings, a tuning of melodious harps and lyres. The soft, pure air is laden with the refrain, "They are coming home! they are coming home!"

Here, close to the gates, a faithful mother is waiting to welcome home her child. The fond husband waits for the absent wife; the "lost babe" longs for its mother; and the gentle sister looks eagerly for her brother, the wild young brother to whom she whispered at parting, "Meet me in Heaven, Charley." Friend waits for friend; the pastor for his flock.

There is a glad, expectant stir; the pearly gates are opened wide, and amid the triumphant anthems of heaven's host, the ransomed enter in. Oh, what a meeting for that mother, husband, sister, friend! But far above all these is the joy of the meeting of the saved with his Saviour, of the repentant prodigal with his Father, of the sheep with the Shepherd. No more temptation for the sinner and the prodigal! No more wanderings for the sheep in rough and lonely ways! No more weariness, pain, or sorrow! At home forever, where all is joy and love and peace!

ROMANCE IN MUNCY.

A GAY DECEIVER BROUGHT TO AN ACCOUNT AFTER FORTY-EIGHT YEARS ABSENCE.

The Luminary has the following case of tardy justice in its issue, before the election.

Forty-eight years ago a young man left this Borough, "between two days," to avoid arrest upon a warrant sworn out by a young lady, who it seems

"Loved not wisely, but too well,"

and who was left with a little responsibility which she thought should have a father's as well as a mother's care. Time passed and the girl then, is now, an old woman. The other day a stranger appeared upon our streets whose locks were silvered, (as was afterwards learned) by the frosts of 72 winters. By some means he was recognized as the truant lover of 48 years ago, and his presence in town coming to the ears of the deserted one, she at once had a new warrant issued for him and caused his arrest. That the old gentleman was taken by surprise when waited upon by the constable, may easily be imagined, but having been caught in the meshes of the law he determined to make the most of it. A meeting took place before A. B. Putnam, Esq., and negotiations entered into for the amicable settlement of the difficulty, which was finally accomplished by the venerable gentleman paying the injured woman two hundred dollars. This was cheap enough all things considered. As the old gentleman left town on the first train after he was discharged from custody, we suppose he has returned to his home in the West where he has resided for nearly a half a century, no doubt, feeling all the better for having discharged an obligation for so many years resting upon him.

A LOST GREELEY VOTE IN MUNCY.

The Luminary further says that as a faithful chronicler of passing events, we mention that a rather prominent local Democratic politician and a married man, of this borough, left town very hastily one night last week, for parts unknown, for the same reason that the gentleman referred to above, left forty-eight years ago—the object upon whom he lavished his affections, being a colored girl, of the tender age of 15 or 16 years. One vote less for Greeley in Muncy on Tuesday. We suppress the names in both the above cases out of respect &c., &c.

THERE are emotions that one could never put into words without the danger of being ridiculous. Analysis is the death of sentiment.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

WISHART'S PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL,

NATURE'S GREAT REMEDY
FOR THE Throat & Lungs.

It is gratifying to us to inform the public that Dr. L. Q. C. Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial, for Throat and Lung Diseases, has gained an enviable reputation from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, and from thence to some of the first families of Europe, not through the press alone, but by persons throughout the States actually benefitted and cured at his office. While he publishes less, so say our reporters, he is unable to supply the demand. It gains and holds its reputation—

First. Not by stopping cough, but by loosening and assisting nature to throw off the unhealthy matter collected about the throat and bronchial tubes, which causes irritation.

Second. It removes the cause of irritation (which produces cough) of the mucous membrane and bronchial tubes, assists the lungs to act and throw of the unhealthy secretions, and purifies the blood.

Third. It is free from squills, lobelia, ipicac and opium, of which most throat and lung remedies are composed, which allay cough only, and disorganize the stomach. It has a soothing effect on the stomach, acts on the liver and kidneys and lymphatic and nervous regions, thus reaching to every part of the system, and in its invigorating and purifying effects it has gained a reputation which it must hold above all others in the market.

JOHN S. FOSTER.

AN APPEAL!

To Debilitated Persons,
To Dispeptics,
To Sufferers from Liver Complaint
To those having no Appetite,
To those with broken down Constitutions
To Nervous People,
To Children Wasting Away,
To any with debilitated digestive Organs

Or suffering with any of the following Symptoms, which indicate Disordered Stomach or Liver.

such as Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness or Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and difficult breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, &c., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.

Hoofland's German Bitters.

A Bitters without Alcohol or Spirits of any kind.

Is different from all others. It is composed of the pure Juices, or VITAL PRINCIPLE OF ROOTS, HERBS, and BARKS, (or, as medicinally termed, Extracts,) the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore in one Bottle of this Bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons or ordinary mixtures. The Roots, &c., used in this Bitters are grown in Germany, their vital principles extracted in that country by a scientific Chemist, and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, when they compounded and bottled. Containing no spirituous ingredients, this Bitters is free from the objections urged against all others: no desire for stimulants can be induced from their use, they cannot make drunkards, and cannot under any circumstances, have any but a beneficial effect.

Hoofland's German Tonic.

Was compounded for those not inclined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases when some alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the Tonic properties of the Bitters. Each bottle of the tonic contains one bottle of the Bitters, combined with pure SANTA CRUZ RUM, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the bitters is overcome forming a preparation highly agreeable and pleasant to the palate, and containing the medicinal virtues of the Bitters. The price of the Tonic is $1,50 per Bottle, which many persons think too high. They must take into consideration that the stimulant used is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article? A medicinal preparation should contain none but the best ingredients; and they who expect to obtain a cheap compound, and be benefitted by it, will most certainly be cheated.

SPEAK FOR THESE REMEDIES.
Who would ask for more Dignified or Stronger Testimony?

HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD, formerly Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania at present Member of Congress from Pennsylvania, writes:

PHILADELPHIA, March 16, 1871.

I find "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in case of debility and want of nervous action in the system. Yours truly,
GEO. W. WOODWARD.

HON. JAS. THOMPSON, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania,

PHILADELPHIA, April 28, 1867.

I consider "Hoofland's German Bitters" a valuable medicine in case of attacks of indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my own experience of it.
Yours, with respect, JAS. THOMPSON.

Hon. GEORGE SHARSWOOD, Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1, 1868.

I have found by experience that "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a very good tonic, relieving dyspeptic symptoms almost directly.
GEORGE SHARSWOOD

Hon. JAS. M. WOOD, Ex-Mayor of Williamsport, Pa.

I take great pleasure in recommending "Hoofland's German Tonic" to any one who may be afflicted with Dyspepsia. I had the Dyspepsia so badly it was impossible to keep any food on my stomach, and I became so weak, as not to be able to walk half a mile. Two bottles of Tonic effected a perfect cure. JAMES M. WOOD.

REMEMBER
THAT
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS,
AND
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,
Will Cure every Case of
MARASMUS,
Or Wasting away of the Body.
REMEMBER
THAT
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES
Are the medicines you require to purify the Blood, excite the torpid Liver to healthy action, and to enable you to pass safely through any hardships or exposure.

DR. HOOFLAND'S
PODOPHYLLIN,
Or Substitute for Mercury Pills.
TWO PILLS A DOSE.
The Most Powerful, Yet Innocent Vegetable Cathartic Known.

It is not necessary to take a handful of these Pills to produce the desired effect; two of them act quickly and powerfully, cleansing the Liver, Stomach and Bowels all impurities. The principal ingredient is Podophyllin, or the Alcoholic Extract of Mandrake, which is by many times more powerful, acting and searching than the Mandrake itself. Its peculiar action is upon the Liver, cleaning it speedily from all obstructions, with all the power of Mercury, yet free from the injurious results attached to the use of that mineral.

For all diseases, in which the use of a cathartic is indicated, these pills will give entire satisfaction in every case. They NEVER FAIL.

In cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia and extreme costiveness, Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters or Tonic should be used in connection with the Pills. The tonic effect of the Bitters or Tonic builds up the system. The Bitters or Tonic purifies the Blood, strengthens the Nerves, REGULATES the Liver, and gives strength, energy and vigor.

Keep your Bowels active with the Pills, and tone up the system with Bitters or Tonic, and no disease can retain a hold, or ever assail you.

Recollect that it is DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES that are so universally used and highly recommended; and do not allow the Druggist to induce you to take anything else that he may say is just as good, because he makes a larger profit on it. These Remedies will be sent by Express to any locality, upon application to the PRINCIPAL OFFICE, at the GERMAN MEDICINE STORE, 631 Arch St., Philadelphia.

COVER YOUR HORSE'S BREAST.—A correspondent of the Philadelphia Evening Star makes the following sensible remarks, which we copy as being particularly pertinent at this juncture:

"I am surprised that no one has called attention to the want of protection to the most important part of the horse—the breast. You will see horses on the streets with covering on the back, and breast exposed; every one who owns a horse should be aware that the lungs and throat of this animal require as much protection in this climate as the breast of a man.

"When we breast the cutting easterly winds, or the cold, clear wind of the west, we, as rational beings, cover well the breast, protecting the most important organ of the body—the lungs. Now more particularly then ever, the horse requires the same protection. I have observed that the passenger railways running east and west are more affected than other roads. This can be accounted for on the principle of no protection from the winds that they have to face either east or west.

Let every one who owns a horse have an apron made to come from the collar to near the knees, and not sweat one part of the body that can nearly protect itself, at the expense of the all important part—the breast of the animal."

AN irate Philadelphia father doesn't approve of the present system of school-teaching. He declares that it is far below that in vogue thirty years ago, and that it is making candidates for the insane asylum, and piling up a heap of misery in many forms. He desires that there should be reasonable flogging in schools—beginning with the teachers. One thing which especially arouses his wrath is the way in which tired parents are forced to teach their sleepy children, during the evening, the lessons which they go to school the next day merely to recite. He demurs, and with reason, at doing the mental drudgery for which he liberally pays others who are purposely fitted for it. It is not alone from Philadelphia that this remonstrance comes. In all our cities, parents are complaining bitterly of the studying at home to which their children are forced on pain of falling below their classes. No father wants to teach school during all his leisure hours and no child should be compelled to spend so much of the day in brain-work. Fewer studies and strict discipline in the schools would make sufficient time for memorizing of lessons at the desk. It is the great fault of our school system that it demands that children should occupy themselves with more studies at one time than they are able to intelligently master.

THANK GIVING SERMON

DELIVERED ON THANKSGIVING DAY, IN MILESBURG, PENN'A., BY REV. W. O. WRIGHT, PASTOR OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

MILESBURG, PA., Nov. 28th, 1872.

REV. W. O. WRIGHT:

Dear Sir:—We the undersigned having listened to your sermon of to-day, feel that the publication of the same would be beneficial and edifying to the people at large, do therefore, earnestly request a copy for publication in our county papers.

Yours very respectfully,

WHARTON MORRIS,
A. R. PETERS,
JOSHUA MITCHELL,
C. H. ELIE,
C. L. GREENO.

MILESBURG, PA., Nov. 29th, 1872.

MESSRS. WHARTON MORRIS, A. R. PETERS, JOSHUA MITCHELL, C. H. ELIE AND C. L. GREENO:

Gentlemen:—Accept my thanks for the honor you confer on me in the above request. In answer I would say—though shrinking from publicity, and doubting much whether the efforts of a village parson will be considered worthy of notice—I do not feel that I can refuse your request.

Very respectfully, yours,

W. O. WRIGHT.

THE SERMON.

"Then Samuel took a stone, and set it between Mizpeh and Shen, and called the name of it Eben-zer, saying: Hitherto hath the Lord helped us.—I. SAMUEL, 7, 12.

FELLOW-CITIZENS AND CHRISTIANS:—Another year has rolled away, and, in His kind providence, we are still living to return thanks to Almighty God for His manifold mercies; and why is this? Surely not for our individual piety—though God does not overlook this—but because that "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us." For though his interposition is not so visible and immediate in our case, it is no less true than in the case of Israel in the days of Samuel.

And if there be one thing more than another, for which we ought to be thankful to day, it is this, that we are still disposed to acknowledge that our prosperity and happiness, as a nation, are owing to the kind interposition and favor of God. And herein we have the pledge of our future prosperity, for we can never fail so long as we recognize the truth, "That the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will." It is true indeed that many nations have risen to greatness and power, who have not acknowledged God as the Supreme Ruler of the nations. But it is no less true that they owed their greatness and power to the favor of God. And this we learn from God's holy word. And why did they become great and powerful? Just to accomplish God's purpose. Sometimes God permits a nation to become great for the punishment or chastisement of other nations whose iniquity has become great in the sight of heaven. For this purpose God made Babylon great in the days of Nebuchadnezzar, to punish the surrounding nations and to chastise his people Israel; and when it had served his purpose, but failed to acknowledge Him, he broke its power and brought it under the power of the Medes and Persians. By the first he chastised His people, and by the second he set His people free. Each had its mission and passed away. And these latter fell under the power of the Macedonians. And these again under the power of the Romans. All these served God's purpose and ceased. And why? Because, as nations they did not acknowledge the God of heaven. The nation of the Jews is a striking instance of this also. As long as it feared God and served him it was powerful and prosperous; but when it forgot God, it fell before its enemies. And could we trace the history of every nation on the earth, we should be forced to the same conclusion, that, the nation that forgat God perished; and the nation that feared and acknowledged Him was ever invincible.

And what nation under heaven has better evidence of this truth than this great nation? From a little one we have become not only thousands but millions. From being small, despised and dependent, we have become great, respected and independent. And why is this? Is it because of our native energy and resources—as some would have it? These are only the means to the end. No, but because we laid the foundation in the fear of God, and, as a nation, have never failed to acknowledge Him to be the Ruler among the nations. Nor does it militate against this that, as individuals, we have not been all, nor the greater part, truly pious; for it is notorious that we have been far otherwise. No, but that our individual impiety has not ruined us, is owing to this, that as a nation, we have still acknowledged this, that "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us." There has still been salt enough to keep the mass from corruption. "Ye are the salt of the earth." Ye are the salt of the nation, and for your sakes it is still preserved. Laying aside the individual piety or impiety of our rulers, there has still been public sentiment enough to ensure this, that God has still been owned to be our God and the Supreme Ruler among the nations. And we give God the glory this day, that, from whatever motive, our rulers have never failed to call on this nation, annually, to return thanks to Almighty God for all his mercies. "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us." Herein is God publicly glorified, and herein lies the hope of our future greatness. God has made this nation great and independent for his own purpose. He has made it the asylum of the oppressed and down trodden of all nations. Here he has given every man liberty to worship God according to the dictates of his conscience. And on this is suspended our political liberty; for our political and religious liberty stand or fall together. Here, he has thrown together the representatives of all nations. And why? That the mass may be leavened "By the word of God, which liveth and abideth forever." For this he has made us great and respected. And it becomes us to acknowledge God publicly, that, through us, the whole earth may learn that "The Lord God omnipotent reigneth."

The importance of this day can never be overestimated, for it proclaims to the whole earth that this great people's God is the God that made heaven and earth. Yea, that He is "The God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ." It proclaims to all men salvation through the sacrifice of Christ. This is its mission and this is its glory and safety. Let it be our mission to preserve it and hand it down to our children to the last generation of men. May the day never come when this nation shall fail to proclaim with Samuel, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

But that we may remain before Him, we should know our danger as well as our safety.

There are several things that threaten our national existence:

One of these is, that there are many who desire to take the word of God out of the hands of our children, in our Public Schools. Now these are the foundations of our national intelligence and on these, under God, depend greatly the perpetuity of our liberty. This is especially true of Republican governments. No people can be long free who are not educated. An illiterate people become the dupes of demagogues. This is notorious. We have had some experience of this in the past, but it is passing away. Why? because every man can read and think for himself. But what shape will a man's thinking take who has no moral teaching? And how shall we teach morals but by the word of God? Shall we then teach our children everything else but the law of God? Shall we deny them heavens text-book? Blackstone says, that "The trial by jury is the Palladium of our civil rites." And more truly may it be said that the word of God is the Palladium of our religious liberty. We need only recall the history of those nations whose people were denied the word of God, to remember that it is written in blood and slavery. I think it is Webster who says, "That we can only judge of the future by the history of the past," and the history of "The Dark Ages," is one of cruelty, ignorance and superstition. And why were they called "The Dark Ages?" Not only because men were illiterate, but chiefly because the word of God was almost unknown to the mass of the people. It was when Wickliffe gave a version of the Old and New Testaments, (in the fourteenth century) to the people, that light began to dawn on the nations. And it became brighter when Luther translated the New Testament in the sixteenth century. "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." What nations have since become great, powerful and permanent! Only those whose people have had in their hands the word of God. Witness, Scotland, England and Germany to-day. This was and is the secret of their power. And shall we take it from our children and go back again to "The Dark Ages?" Those who would take it from our families also.

Then, let us guard well, this our Palladium, from the hands of the destroyers. If we do not acknowledge God in the education of our children they will live to punish us in refusing to own him in the affairs of our nation. And then our end is not far off. Let us avoid their error, and escape their misery.

There is another thing that endangers our national liberty. It is our unwonted prosperity. The tendency, in individuals and nations, is to be lifted up and become proud and self-relient in prosperity. We are apt, at such times, to forget God, and give the glory to ourselves. We should have an eye to this, lest we suffer the fate of Nebuchadnezzar. It was when he was lifted up that the kingdom was taken from him and he was reduced to "Eat grass as oxen," till he learned "That the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will." And are there not some symptoms of this disease among us to-day? Are we not inflated with pride and self-importance? Are we not glorying in our own greatness and forgetting God? What is the fact that stares us in the face to day? It is this, that perhaps, not one-tenth of this great people will turn from their pleasures and the worship of mammon to return thanks to God, or acknowledge his mercies. What does this mean? That nine-tenths of this people do practically ignore God in the affairs of individuals and nations. But this supposed one-tenth is the salvation of the whole nation. You remember that God promised to spare Sodom if only ten righteous persons were found in it. So we may hope that there is still salt enough in this great nation to save it. And in this we rejoice, and say with Samuel, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us." And may I not venture this opinion here, that our partial sufferings by fire and war, are God's admonitions to us that as a whole nation we do not own Him as the Ruler among the nations. Did not Israel suffer for Achan's sake? Were they not all cast down for this one man's sin? And can we be indifferent as to others sins? If we are we shall be proportional sufferers with them. It is the interest of every one to see to it that all men fear God. If we admit that God is a righteous Ruler, we must expect chastisement for our want of gratitude to Him. Our prosperity, under God, is owing to this one-tenth, and our sufferings to those nine-tenths, and here we cannot but admire the goodness and mercy of God, in reversing the proportion of our blessings; for it is but as one tenth of suffering for nine-tenths of sinning. Truly, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

And this is true of us as a nation as it is not of any other nation. It is true of our history as a whole, for from the very beginning of our national existence God's hand has been manifestly with us. In our first struggle he raised up a Washington to lead us to victory, just as he raised up a Samson, a Jephthah, and a David. When did we ever fail? Never were we conquered. God ever raised up the man for the time. I need not follow the particulars here. You yourselves know our history, and our children should be taught it, and shown that God's hand is evidently in it. "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

But we are failing into negligence here. How is our National Anniversary observed now? Too frequently by our young men only. Where are the fathers? Should they not be first and prominent? And should it not be a day of rejoicing and thanks to God rather than a day of rioting and drunkenness? We should not slight the day of our freedom.

And there is still another great evil amongst us that threatens our very existence. It is intemperance. While other evils have slain their thousands this has slain its ten thousands. It is the invariable companion of beggary and murder. The nation groans under its yoke. And shall we, who are free men, be slaves to this intolerable bondage? It is for you to say. It is to some degree in your power to crush it. Let us rise in our might, and destroy the tyrant who brings misery and wailing to our homes. If we be indifferent to it we must taste its misery. Let every man who fears God do all that is lawfully in his power, to put this evil from among us. Let us not, through neglect and cowardice, be partakers in other men's sins, or we shall be partakers in their plagues.

But notwithstanding our remissness we can say, with truth, and we should say it with gratitude, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us." Instead of "Deserved wrath He has remembered mercy."

And the year that is just passing away is another witness that he has been with us and helped us still:

We are at peace with all the nations of the earth. No foreign war has consumed our treasures and our lives. And did not some fear that this might be the result of our negotiations with England? But it is otherwise with us to-day. We have not only had no war, but our negotiations have been successful. God put it in the hearts of men to be at peace with us, and for this we give Him public thanks to-day. And the settlement of the San Juan boundary has been in our favor also, and that without cost to us; the Emperor of Germany refusing to make any claim on our treasury. Our national debt is being rapidly swept away. What people is like this great people whom God is evidently blessing. "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

And we have lived in peace at home. We have been spared another year from civil war. We have not had to sacrifice our fathers, our sons and brothers, to the devouring monster. How can we ever estimate this blessing? "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

And we have had no plague, no epidemic has swept away our people. And our progress has been amazing. In population, in arts and sciences and in civilization. And above all how many thousands of this people have passed from death to eternal life. How many times has heaven echoed with the songs of angels that one more precious soul is saved by the precious blood of Jesus. What people is like this great people whom God has so signally blessed.

And our land has brought forth by handfuls, food in abundance for man and beast. Yea, and more than we need for ourselves. No famine, no suffering, but from improvidence and personal sins. He has only touched one of our cities, and breathed disease on beasts of burden to teach us not to trust too much in temporal things. He shows us occasionally how entirely we are at his mercy. May we accept the chastisement, and learn the lesson he would teach us, and "Lay up for ourselves treasure in heaven" where no fire nor disease can reach it.

And how graciously he has dealt with us here at home. Only a few of our people have been taken away, and they, we trust, have gone to glory. And has not his hand recently been manifest in saving us from devouring fire. What was to hinder but that we should all have suffered. It only needed one breath of heaven and we should have been a black and smouldering village to day. But he spared us and we give Him public thanks this day.

And some have been sick, nigh unto death, but he has spared them to cheer our hearts to day. And shall we forget Him in the presence of all these mercies? Nay, rather let us show our gratitude in words of praise and deeds of benifecence, by stretching out our hands to the poor and needy, and this imitate our Father who is in heaven. And may it please Him to spare and bless us, and our nation through the coming year, and may many precious souls be brought savingly to Him through Jesus Christ, and we shall ever praise his holy name. "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

THE DOUBLE SAD STORY.

A MOTHER AND FIVE CHILDREN BURNED, TWO OF THEM FATALLY, BY THE EXPLOSION OF A COAL OIL LAMP.

The Lancaster Intelligencer says: "On Monday evening last, as Mrs. Jacob H. Graybill, residing near Petersburg, was sitting at a table with her youngest child in her lap, the child caught hold of and overturned a lighted coal oil lamp, which was at once broken, and in an instant the room was filled with flame. Mrs Graybill and five of her children were all badly burned, the youngest so severely that it died on Tuesday night, and it is feared that the next youngest will also die.—The house was on fire, and owing to the confusion and excitement following the accident, would have been burned down had it not been for the timely assistance rendered by Adam Graybill and an aged lady named Downey, who were present but fortunately escaped injury. Jacob H. Graybill, the father of the family, was absent at the time of the accident, on business. The child that died was buried in the family burying ground, near Petersburg. The sad accident has cast quite a gloom over the neighbors. It is hoped it may be a warning to all to use great caution in handling that most dangerous of all illuminating agents—coal oil.

GOOD.—We find the following going the rounds of the newspapers, and as we think in entirely too good to be lost, we insert it in our local columns:

A NEW EXCELSIOR.

I.

The night had sunk on Chappaqua,
The wind was keen, the air was raw,
As forth the farmer went in peace,
With this device on his valise:
"I'm going West!"

II.

His pants were short, his boots run down,
His felt hat smashed in at the crown,
And like a squeaking cart wheel rung
The accents of that well known tongue:
"I'm going West!"

III.

In White House window, bright and warm,
He dreams he sees Ulysses' form,
Then yanks his trowsers higher and higher,
Ripe fierce it out, and screams in ire:
"I'm going West!"

IV.

"Don't try that dodge!" John Cochrane cried,
"The Free Trade boys will tan your hide!"
Upon his nose a tear-drop shines,
He wipes it on his sleeve and whines:
"I'm going West!"

V.

"Beware of those who've read your books!"
"You'll know them by their vacant looks;"
This was a "screhead's" parting cry:
A silvery voice replied, "You lie!"
"I'm going West!"

VI.

A sleepy "cop" that morning found
The old man seated on the ground,
Still clinging to his carpet-bag,
Which bore this motto on its tag,
"I'm going West!"

VII

There, 'neath the Franklin statue sat
Old Chappaquack in his white hat,
Like huntsman resting from the hunt,
While from his lips escaped a grunt:
"I'm going West!"

THE number of soldiers orphans under the care of this State has, we learn from the Lancaster Examiner, undergone no diminution the past four years, the places of those leaving the schools by reason of having arrived at the proscribed age sixteen years or for other causes, being filled by others old enough to claim admission. In the years 1868, 1869, 1870 and 1871 between 3,600 and 3,700 orphans were educated and supported under the law providing for the establishment of the Soldier's Orphans Department, and during the current year the number has been about the same. The monthly admissions reach from thirty-five to forty. The yearly expense of the State in keeping up the orphan school system amounts to from $450,000 to $550,000 which sum will probably be greately reduced within the next two or three years, and in the course of five or six years the number of orphans will have become so small as to render the department created for their benefit unnecessary.

DIRECTORS and people in districts remote from the Railroad, who may wonder why the County Superintendent does not visit their schools, are reminded that the Horse Disease makes it impossible at present to visit them.

DIED.

On the 24th ult., at Beaver Mills, Rush twp., infant son of David H. Chandler, aged seven weeks.

On the 25th of Nov., in Zion, this county, of Dropsy, John Shaffer, aged 44 years, 11 months and 5 days.

A BY ONE OF THE LEADING PHYSICIANS of Philadelphia city.—A careful examination of mortuary statistics establishes the fact that one adult person out of every six dies of consumption, and so alarmingly is this disease gaining the ascendancy over all other ailments to which flesh is heir, that its approach to one's immediate circle is regarded with perfect horror. If you will carefully examine the records of Materia Medica you will invariably discover that the general want of success in treating diseases has not been a deficiency of pathological knowledge of the functions affected, but of a suitable compound that would act upon the disease and all the stomach in affections.

This want has at last been met in the Bitter Wine of Iron, prepared by the celebrated Dr. E. E. Kunkel, No 259 North Ninth street, Philadelphia. This excellent compound can be taken by persons with the most delicate stomachs without any debilitating effect always giving strength and largely increasing the nervous energy of the patient. In all cases of pulmonary complaints it is admirably adapted to relieve the severity of the symptoms in the advanced stages of the disease, or to arrest it in its incipiency. If you want something that will give you strength, a good appetite, build up your constitution, and in place of motes and a lack of energy, give you colorless and vigorous feeling, try Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron. It has already received the medical praise from thousands who have tested its virtues, and for many years maintained its reputation with unabated popularity.

Price $1 per bottle. E. E. KUNKEL, Sole Proprietor, No 259 North Ninth street, below Vine, Philadelphia.
